Esperanza and RhinoX Collaborate to Broaden Professional Investor Access to Tokenised Investments

RhinoX intends to draw on nearly 30 years of brokerage experience to introduce Esperanza's tokenised investments to eligible clients

Hong Kong, 23 November 2026

Fresh from winning Gold at the Hong Kong ICT Awards 2026, Esperanza[1] is working with RhinoX Limited ("RhinoX") to bring its tokenised investment products to more professional investors in Hong Kong. With five entertainment projects already funded through Esperanza's model, the collaboration connects its investment capabilities with RhinoX's established securities brokerage business. Esperanza Fintech (Securities) Limited and RhinoX signed a memorandum of understanding on 20 November 2026.

RhinoX has operated as a Hong Kong securities broker since 1997 and holds a Securities and Futures Commission (SFC) Type 1 licence and is an Exchange Participant. Since its establishment, the company has provided professional services to investors, with a business scope covering securities dealing, professional placements and underwriting. RhinoX intends to distribute tokenised investments originated by Esperanza to eligible clients, extending its product offering while opening a new client channel for Esperanza's future investment projects.

Esperanza's Espetopia – Regulated Tokenized Community Capital Markets solution received Gold in the HKICT Awards' FinTech Award (Web3, Tokenisation and Digital Assets) category. Its investment track record includes OC01, which completed fundraising, secondary-market trading and final settlement in under six months. Investment Tokens represent units in a tokenised fund, available to professional investors only. The collaboration brings these product and project capabilities together with a broker's investor relationships and execution services.

RhinoX plans to support Esperanza's application to Cyberport's blockchain subsidy scheme as Project Sponsor. The parties intend to develop cooperation around entertainment-related investments and associated consumer experiences, keeping professional-investor products distinct from consumer products.

"We have built the infrastructure and taken real projects through to settlement. Our next step is to bring those opportunities to more professional investors," said Tony Chang, Co-Founder and Chief Product Officer of Esperanza. "RhinoX brings brokerage experience and client relationships to that next stage. Together, we want to make tokenised investment a product that eligible investors can access through their broker, with a path from investment to settlement."

"We firmly believe in technology empowering finance. Our goal is to open up institutional-grade professional services to every eligible client" said David Tang, Chief Technology Officer of RhinoX. "Esperanza brings an award-winning tokenisation solution and hands-on experience in taking projects through to final settlement. Combined with the execution capabilities we have built up over many years in securities dealing, we plan to bring these products to our clients and offer professional investors a richer selection of investments."
